INFORMED CONSENT FOR TREATMENT

I _____ (client name) request treatment by Main Street Counseling, LLC. I consent to routine assessment evaluations, and counseling as deemed necessary. I understand that Main Street Counseling, LLC makes no guarantees as to the results of treatment or evaluation. The therapy process is one in which you seek to understand yourself, your feelings, and your concerns more clearly, and perhaps, to make some changes in your life as a result of what you have learned. My role in this process is to help you gain a different perspective on yourself, your feelings, and your life. I will seek, first, to get to know you so that I can better understand your concerns. You will aid me in this process by being open and honest in our sessions and providing as much information as you can concerning the issues that trouble you. Occasionally, I may say things that you find difficult to hear. Your therapy goals will best be achieved if you can remain open to emotions, insights, and ideas, which may be different than what you have experienced before. Because the therapy process sometimes involves an examination of aspects of yourself, which have previously remained hidden, you may be surprised by the intensity of new emotions. Be assured that this is a normal part of the healing and change which occurs through therapy.

All of our sessions are confidential. The ethics of my profession prevent me from discussing you or your situation outside of our sessions, with the following exceptions: 1) if someone is in danger of being harmed (you or someone else), 2) if I become aware of the existence of physical or sexual abuse of a child or an elderly adult, 3) if I or my records are subpoenaed by a judge, and 4) if you give me written permission to release your records to another party, such as DFS, the Juvenile Office, or another therapist with whom you have worked. To maintain the highest quality of service for my clients, I may, at times, consult with a colleague. All sessions are private and no video or audio taping will be allowed unless written all parties give written consent.

You have many rights as a client under my care. Several of them have been granted to you by the information contained in this document. Specifically, you have the right to: (1) have knowledge of my qualifications and training, (2) be fully informed regarding the conditions under which services will be provided to you, (3) discuss your therapy with anyone you choose, (4) request an explanation of any procedure or form of therapy used in your treatment, (5) review your file with me and have summaries of your file released to other professionals with your written request, (6) end therapy at any time, hopefully after you have discussed your reasons with me, (7) ask me questions. If there is something about which you are confused, please feel free to ask me questions and expect an explanation that you understand and that respects your rights.

If you have any questions or concerns about the information contained in this document, please discuss them with me at your earliest convenience.
